ELOPEMENT PACKAGE

Kate and Gustav Weindorfer, the mother and father of Cradle Mountain, were the first to share the beauty of the mountains with visitors, building the first and only home here. If the walls of this home could speak, they would tell you of the rare and undying love they had for each other. They would say it was the kind of love that isn't weakened by years passed or time spent away from each other. They would tell you of the long nights they spent together by the fire together in isolation, with only the wombats, wallabies and each other for company.

Kate and Gustav were kindred spirits and the enduring love they shared is as profoundly beautiful as their mountain home.

Romance is woven into the fabric of this place. Kate and Gustav etched it into the narrative when they unknowingly wrote Tassie's greatest love story here.

Start the next chapter of your love story exchanging vows in the national park, immersed in nature, with the stunning alpine wilderness and breathtaking mountain peaks as your backdrop.

NATIONAL PARK INFORMATION

It should also be noted that entry to the national park is restricted to private vehicles during shuttle bus operation times. Special allowances are made for eloping couples. This is generally the allowance for two vehicles to enter the park, one for the bride and groom, and one for the celebrant. Your celebrant will work with Parks & Wildlife on your behalf to arrange this. Any additional guests that aren't able to travel in these vehicles will need to take the shuttle bus which leaves from the Visitors Centre very regularly (every 15 minutes or so).

If you choose to marry inside the national park, we will provide two chairs and a signing table, however, these need to be transported in your or your celebrant's vehicle as our staff do not accompany you into the national park.
